GOP SEEKS CURE FOR LABOR ILLS

SCHOOL HEADS RECEIVE $500 PAY INCREASES

Board Sets Up New Salary Schedule For Principals, Substitute Teachers.

Principals of Mansfield public schools were granted $500 annual pay increases last night under a new salary schedule set up by the board of education.

The salary boosts are in line with increases granted last month to teachers in the city system. The board is still working on a schedule for the school custodians who have asked increases averaging $480 a month.

* * *

Covers 5 Years.

The $500 increases are effective immediately. The schedule, covering a five-year period, also sets up additional increases of $100 to $200 during the 1947-48 term and $200 more during the final three years of the schedule for a few of the principals. The additional increases will bring principals up to the maximum as they qualify for more pay.

Principals this year will receive from $2,400 to $4,500 depending upon their experience, education, and the responsibility involved in their jobs. By 1951, the salary range will be from $3,200 to $4,600 provided the same principals are holding the posts.

Here are the principals' salaries for the current school year and the 1950-51 term, final year the schedule is in effect:

Glenn Rohleder, Senior high, $4,500 and $4,600; G. W. Harmony, Johnny Appleseed junior high; $3,800 and $4,000; H. G. Dotson, John Simpson junior high, $4,000 and $4,100; E. W. Kissel, Bowman school, $3,400 and $3,800; C. C. Secrist, Brinkerhoff school, $3,300 and $3,700.

Miss Lena Heim, Bushnell school, $3,000 and $3,500; Dean Rex, Carpenter school, $3,300 and $3,700; Hedges school, (Miss Irma Manitzer is principal in charge) $3,400 and $3,800; R. O. Hartmann, Newman school, $2,400 and $3,200; G. W. Taylor, Prospect school, $3,300 and $3,700; W. W. Blauser, West Fifth school, $3,300 and $3,700; Jesse Clark, Western Avenue school, $3,100 and $3,700; C. A. Divelbiss, Woodland school, $3,200 and $3,500.

$2 Boost Granted.

On the recommendation of Supt. of Schools W. L. Miller, the board boosted the pay for substitute teachers who are on a day-by-day basis from $6 to $8 a day.

Supt. Miller said it has become almost impossible to hire substitute teachers for a half-day or a day because of the small amount they have left after income tax is deducted.

MARSHALL RAPS CHINESE REDS

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Gen. George C. Marshall today blamed Communist and Nationalist extremists for the hopelessness of his efforts to achieve a unified and democratic government in China.

The state department issued Marshall's vigorous statement as the general, President Truman's bring peace to strife-torn China, flew homeward from Nanking for consultations with the chief executive and Secretary of State Brynes.

Although the statement did not make it definite that Marshall was abandoning his attempt to bring peace to strice-torn China, the tone of the document indicated acknowledgment of failure.

Marshall excoriated both the Communists and the extremist elements in the Koumintang, the party controlling the Nationalist government, in his 1,800-word account of his mission.

The general declared:

"Sincere efforts to achieve settlement have been frustrated time and again by extremist elements of both sides."

City Operating Costs May Top Million In '47

An appropriation totaling more than $1,000,000, highest in the city's history, has been requested by various city departments for operating expenses this year, Mayor Roy W. Vaughn revealed today.

The requests top last year's appropriation bill by some $260,000. Tonight the appropriation bill's first draft goes to council's finance committee and then, on Friday it will be considered by council as a whole. Both groups usually whittle something from the total bill.

Major causes for the higher bill—totaling $1,092,167—can be traced directly to high costs of labor, materials and the fact that the city is equipment-poor and must replenish its supply this year, officials said.

Vaughn pointed to wage boosts given city employes last year as one of the main reasons for the record bill.

* * *

Needs Cars, Trucks.

He said, too, that during the war the city was unable to buy needed equipment, including numerous autos and trucks, and is setting up money for that purpose this year.

Other major reasons for the record bill are a proposed revamping of the city building's third floor to permit relocation of municipal court rooms and construction of a fifth fire station. Both projects are scheduled for this year, he said.

In addition, the appropriation for the city's garbage department is being considered for a $25,000 increase. This is to eliminate the need for subsidizing that fund from the general fund, the mayor said.

Funds listed for the lion's share of the increase include street repair fund, upped $40,000; fire department, $34,000 and the city building fund, raised some $33,000.

Other funds and their proposed boosts are: water, $25,000; parking meter, $22,000; police, $20,000; fire levy, $19,000; parks, $11,000 and sanitary sewer, $3,000.

The bill's first draft includes these major appropriations: for the fire department, $134,375; police department, $85,275; parks, $50,392; city building, $46,624; street repair, $43,520; street lighting (down $16.000) $20,000; and public health, $14,555, all parts of the general fund.

Other major funds and their proposed appropriations include water, $201,355; garbage, $80,720; parking meters, $67,250; sanitary sewers, $50,420 and fire levy, $29,975.

Special street repair funds are listed for appropriations totaling more than $84,000 to put funds set up for repair above the $127,000-mark.

WESTINGHOUSE UNIONS CALL PAY MEETING

Locals Expected To Discuss Salary Request Sunday.

CIO electrical union officials in Mansfield said today they expected to call a general membership meeting next Sunday to formulate a wage increase request to be submitted later to Westinghouse.

The meeting is expected to be held at the CIO council rooms, 34½ South Park street, at 7:30 p. m. Sunday, Joseph T. Hawkins, Local 711 president said.

A contract plan will be worked out at the meeting and will be presented to a larger assemblage of union members later Hawkins said.

It is expected that the meeting for making a decision on the proposed contract will be called for Jan. 19, Hawkins said.

Labor contracts must be drafted by all locals and forwarded to the international headquarters where they will be presented to the six major electrical manufacturing companies sometime early next month, union spokesmen said.

While local union officials have mentioned no amount in their discussion of pay request hikes, the figure is expected to be between 27½ and 29 cents an hour.

U. N. STUDIES ATOM CONTROL

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y.—(INS)—The United Nations security council will meet at 3 p. m. today to begin the momentous task of safeguarding world pace through atom control and disarmament.

Members of the eleven-nation delegations were modestly optimistic but cognizant at the same time of the long and no doubt stormy road ahead to gain either goal.

The initial 1947 session, presided over by Australian representative Norman J. O. Makin, already bears on its agenda the makings of a controversial issue. The United States and Soviet Russia have submitted resolutions competing with each other for priority.

Diplomatic observers predicted the first test of the reconstituted council will be the decision whether the atomic energy commission's report on vetoless control and inspection of discussed before general disarmament.

The United States demanded priority for atomic discussions in a resolution formally placed before the council today, while Russia moved ten days ago that an eleven-member commission be established to report on a blueprint for disarmament within ninety days.

Officials of the United Nations at Lake Success said the crowded agenda for this afternoon's meeting might delay decision on that vital point until the next meeting of the council.

ARMY DRIVES TO HOLD MEN

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Brig. Gen. B. M. Fitch, deputy recruiting chief, disclosed today that the army launched a drive for reenlistment before next July of 15 per cent of the volunteers serving short terms.

Fitch revealed this stepped-up recruiting effort in the face of a call by President Truman for extension of the draft act because of insufficient numbers of volunteers to keep the army up to required strength.

The general said that about 270,000 short-term soldiers become eligible for discharge during the ten months ending next July 31. He pointed out that of the first million volunteers who signed up nearly half were recruited for terms under three years.

BIBLE STORY OF WIDOW HAS COUNTERPART HERE

"And there came a certain poor widow, and she threw in two mites, which make a farthing.

"And He called unto Him His disciples, and saith unto them. Verily I say unto you, that this poor widow hast cast more in, than all they which have cast into the treasury:

"For all they did cast in of their abundance; but she of her want did cast in all that she had, even all her living."

* * *

This widow, whose story is told in the chapter of Mark, verses 42 to 44, has a counterpart in Mansfield.

The story of her contribution to the Friendly House building fund is told by Russell Gimbel, director of the settlement house:

"A few days ago, we received a letter containing a note and a $5 bill. The note stated that the giver wished she had more to give and was interested in the work of the Friendly House.

"We found out that the woman can't afford to give $5; that she's a widow, close to 80 years old and at the present time is receiving financial help from her church.

"Evidently she saved the $5 from the little income she has. It's the most poignant case we've had where an individual has given beyond their means to a cause they wanted to help along."

SKATING, UNDER LIGHTS—Old Man Winter may be hard on autoists, but he and the park department here made a friend of Mansfield skating enthusiasts. Since the lights were turned on at Liberty and North Lake parks, increasingly large crowds have enjoyed the winter sport. Two of the scores who skated under the lights at Liberty park last night were Eileen McBride, 160 Michigan avenue, and Gene Wert, 397 Lincoln avenue.—(News-Journal staff photo by Bill Graham)

Court Asked to Name TB Building Board

Further steps in construction of the county's proposed new $400,000 49-bed tuberculosis sanatorium were taken today after county commissioners asked Common Pleas Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch to appoint a building commission.

As required by law, a commission of four members must be appointed to supervise construction of the hospital.

Judge Kalbfleisch, who said, he has three applicants for positions on the commission, said he expected to name the four members within two days. Under law, not more than two of the commissioners may be of the same political party.

The judge also has authority to set the commissioners' compensation, their total remuneration not to exceed two and one-half percent of the taxes received for the project.

* * *

More Funds Needed.

What the compensation will be was not immediately clear today because of the reported need for more money than the $300,000 approved by the voters in a bond issue in November, 1945.

County commissioners feel certain that at least another $100,000 will be needed. A total of $400,000 was the figure they placed in their application for a building permit from the Civilian Production administration.

Delayed for more than a year, the project gained momentum again last week when the commissioners advertised for bids from contractors. Deadline for receipt of bids is noon, Feb. 11.

SNOW TO GIVE WAY TO RAIN

This morning's snowstorm, which came in like a lion, meekly withdrew in lamblike fashion before noon.

Moreover, the weatherman predicted rising temperatures would bring rain later today, with mild conditions to continue through tomorrow.

City and county highways were clearing by noon, although early this morning state, county and city equipment was called out to cinder slick pavements.

Snow was general throughout Ohio early today, with more than an inch here and two inches in Cleveland. The low this morning at Hayesville was 20, with the high last night only 24. Precipitation yesterday was .01 inches.

Temperatures throughout the nation were comparatively mild and within a narrow range. The coldest spot in the country at Bismarck, N. D., was only five degrees under the low at Hayesville, while Bismarck's high of 36 was 12 degrees warmer than at Hayesville.

UNION RENEWS PLEA FOR F. H.

Local 711, UERMWA, today renewed a plea to its members to support the Friendly House building campaign. The appeal came as total contributions reached $38,793. Only eight days remain in the drive for $60,000.

"I know of nothing in Mansfield more worthy than the Friendly House and we would like to see the drive go over the top 100 per cent," said Joseph T. Hawkins, union president.

"The company has put pledge cards at most of the entrances to the plant and any amount that members feel they can give will be appreciated and will aid in making the drive a success."

Paul Endriss, general campaign chairman, pointed out that contributions must average more than $2,000 a day in order to attain the goal. Seventy per cent of the total $235,000 building cost will be borne by Mansfield business through the Richland foundation if the $60,000 is raised.

The Mansfield Hermit's club led the latest list of contributors. It boosted its total contributions to $1,400. The Ladies Auxiliary to the Alfred I. Harrington VFW Post No. 3494 contributed $50; Mid-Ohio Amusement Co. $50; Monday Study club $50; Newman school Mother's club $10, and Weidner Motor Sales $50.

Endriss urged again that individuals "upon whom so much depends as to the ultimate success of the drive," mail their contributions to the Friendly House or deliver them to campaign headquarters at the R. E. Moorehead garage, Park avenue west.

IT'S CHRISTMAS TODAY—IN RUSSIA

MOSCOW—(AP)—Thousands of Orthodox Christians throughout the Soviet Union celebrated the traditional Russian Christmas today, following an eve of prayer during which crowds of the faithful thronged the cathedral of the Resurrection while Alexei, patriarch of Moscow and all Russia, led devotional services.

Many other churches throughout the Soviet Union conducted similar services to herald the Russian yuletide, which is celebrated here on Jan. 7, in accordance with the eastern church calendar.

BILL PROPOSES $109,254,121 APPROPRIATION

Ohio Legislature Swings Into Action on State Expenses, Bonus Payment.

BULLETIN

COLUMBUS — (UP) — The senate finance committee today amended the partial appropriation bill to provide that counties' allocations of sales tax funds shall be distributed by their budget commissions to subdivisions on the basis of need.

COLUMBUS —(AP)—The newly-organized Ohio legislature swung into action today on a $109,254,121 appropriation to run the state government for six months and prepared to receive a proposal for immediate payment of a soldier bonus.

The partial appropriation measure, calling for 30 per cent more money than a similar bill two years ago, was headed for enactment this week so state employes could be paid their present salaries on time.

It was introduced in the senate last night by Sen. Albert L. Daniels (R., Greenfield) and referred to committee.

Sen. Robert A. Pollock (R., Canton) said he would submit a resolution today calling for a popular referendum on the bonus proposition.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche in a message yesterday to the opening session of the 97th general assembly urged immediate payment of a cash bonus, financed without new taxes, by issuing bonds to be retired in 25 years.

The governor asserted current revenues were adequate to meet all the state's obligations for the next two years and asked use of the present $160,000,000 treasury surplus for capital improvements only.

10-Point Program.

His recommendations were contained in a ten-point program submitted as his last message to the legislature before turning over his office to Gov.-elect Thomas J. Herbert next Monday.

Herbert said the amount proposed for operating the state government the first half year was about the same as for the last six months.

The biennium appropriation bill will be enacted later in the session, probably in June or July.

The six-month appropriation would provide $30,468,450 for aid for the aged, $29,970,650 for school finance, $2,950,000 for salary and wage adjustment and $10,500,000 for local governments.

The six state universities would get: Ohio State $4,847,900; Ohio university $1,129,584; Kent State $954,650; Miami $948,500; Bowling Green $666,424, and Wilberforce $263,200.

The senate in organizing re-elected Sen. Frank E Whittemore (R., Akron) president pro tem and majority leader, and Thomas E. Bateman of Columbus as clerk for his ninth term, the last five of them consecutive.

C. William O'Neill (R., Marietta) was elected speaker of the house and Rep. Paul L. McCormick (R., Huntsville) speaker pro tem and majority floor leader. Carl Guess of Carrollton was renamed clerk.

The 16 house Democrats presented the name of Rep. John F. Cantwell of Youngstown for minority floor leader and he was elected.

Senate Democrats still were without a minority floor leader.

Wife's 'If' List Chills Hubby's Love

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—(U.P.)—Army Captain Barnard L. Goodard said in a suit for divorce yesterday that his wife didn't exactly desert him.

But she put too many "ifs" into the conditions under which she would join him at his army post following his return from overseas.

He listed them as: (1) if he provided a house, (2) if he had it furnished, (3) if he got her a five-day-per-week job, (4) if he provided the car, and (5) if he let her use the car alone on week-ends with no questions asked.

Advisory Master Linwood Erickson of chancery court recommended a divorce.

STEEL WORKERS READY TO SEEK WAGE INCREASE

1947 Contract Negotiations Will Open Jan. 16.

PITTSBURGH —(U.P.)— The CIO United Steel workers will demand a "substantial" wage increase, a guaranteed annual wage, social insurance, portal-to-portal pay and a union shop when negotiations for a 1947 contract are opened with the United States Steel Corp., Jan. 16.

The contract negotiations with "Big Steel" was expected to set a pattern for the rest of the basic steel industry and also may determine whether the union is to get a second round of wage increases.

The union demands were made public last night when U. S. Steel announced that it would begin negotiations next week.

The demands, now being worked out by the union executive board, headed by CIO President Philip Murray, will be completed Thursday.

Plans Strike Notices.

Murray said strike notices would be filed against U. S. Steel and 60 other basic steel producers on Jan. 15, 30 days before the present contracts expire Feb. 15. The strike notices are a mechanical measure to avoid violation of the Smith-Connally anti-strike law in case a walkout becomes necessary, Murray explained.

The union made no specific pay increases in its demands, indicating that it expected the industry to name the amount. However, an indication of what the union expects was contained in the Nathan report prepared for the CIO. It said the industry could grant a 21 to 25 per cent wage increase without boosting steel prices.

Both industry and labor leaders here believe a new contract can be reached without a strike. They point out that with the scrapping of OPA controls, industry can boost prices to make up for wage increases while unions will hesitate to strike because of the risk of repressive legislation.

Last year steel workers went on strike for 27 days before they won an 18½-cent wage increase.

TRUMAN PLAN LACKS SPEED, SAY LEADERS

Republicans Indicate General Approval of Main Points In President's Message.

(Compiled From Wire Dispatches)

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Republicans loaded the hopper of the 80th congress with labor bills today and called for speedy action rather than the "broad study" proposed by President Truman in his state-of-the-union message.

Senate leaders indicated hearings probably would begin next week on the Ball-Taft-Smith version of the Case bill vetoed by Mr. Truman last year.

Sen. Ball (R., Minn.), chief author of the measure, marked the GOP reaction that the president's labor recommendations might be too slow, saying:

"I don't think we'll reverse our position and adopt a labor study plan. We'll do our studying on specific bills as we go along."

The flood of labor-curbing bills introduced in both senate and house demonstrated that on Capitol Hill, as in the president's 6,000-word message, this was the "No. 1 problem" of 1947.

* * *

Reaction Favorable.

On most points, Republicans figured that President Truman had adopted enough of their program to assure himself a fancy legislative batting average.

The way GOP leaders and committee chairmen sized things up, the Truman record may look considerably better on the books than when the Democrats were running congress, and were discarding or changing more presidential proposals than they accepted.

But the prospective new laws on taxes, labor, housing and on down the line will be what the Republicans think they should be —not necessarily what Mr. Truman wants.

* * *

Methods May Differ.

Chairman Michener (R., Mich.) of the house judiciary committee, put it this way to a reporter:

"The president's subjects are fine. But we may not like the methods. We're for housing, but we don't want the government to build everybody a home. We are for improved health, but not for socialized medicine."

"Sure," said House Republican Leader Halleck (Ind.), "we'll proceed expeditiously to act on labor problems.

"We'll hasten the end of wartime controls. We all applaud his ideas for expansion of private enterprise. We Republicans have been for that all along.

"On budget balancing," Halleck went on, "he's offering cooperation on an important plank in our victory platform of 1946. We'll go along with him on economy—maybe farther than he wants.

"But I don't like his idea for socialized medicine. It has been turned down three times by a Democratic congress."

ROCCO FIGHTS IT OUT, DIES

COBLESKILL, N. Y.—(U.P.)—An autopsy will be performed today on the bullet-riddled body of Alphonse Rocco, who chose to shoot it out with police in moonlit "Patchin' Hollow" last night rather than face society for the camera-gun, proxy shooting of his former wife.

Shortly after 6 o'clock last night the posse, headed by State Police Inspector Charles A. La Farge and New York Detectives Henry Strauss and James Neylon, found Rocco lying in a sleeping bag on the Snow mountain slope.

Moving up behind ridges to keep from being silhouetted in the moonlight, the officers hid behind trees, rifles and revolvers aimed at the figure in the snow.

"Come on out, Rocco, we've got you covered," one of the officers shouted.

Rocco opened fire with one of the two guns he carried. The shells went wild. Police guns blazed. It was over almost instantly. One bullet hit Rocco squarely between the eyes. Another had pierced both cheeks. Still others punctured his chest and stomach.

Rocco had been the object of an intensive manhunt since last Tuesday when 19-year-old Pearl Lusk shot his former wife, Olga Trapani Rocco, 28, with a sawed-off shotgun concealed in a gaily-wrapped package. The shooting occurred in the Times Square subway station in New York city.

KILLER TURNS AUTHOR, OVERLOOKS CRIME DATE

MENARD, Ill. —(U.P.)— William George Heirens, who had to be reminded that just a year ago today he committed the brutal strangulation and mutilation murder of little Suzanne Degnan, plans to offer a $10,000 reward for the capture of the "real murderer or murderers."

Heirens, now 18, and confined to the psychiatric branch of the Illinois state prison where he is writing his autobiography, once again has repudiated the confession he made shortly before he was convicted and sentenced to three life terms for three murders. He was found guilty not only of the murder of six-year-old Suzanne Degnan, but also of the knife slaying of Mrs. Josephine Ross, a 41-year-old widow, and ex-WAVE Frances Brown.

"If I make enough money from my book I'll offer a $10,000 reward for the real murderer or murderers. Maybe it will help pay off my lawyers too."

"I didn't do those murders," Heirens said. "I was told to keep quiet but I won't. I confessed because I thought I might have a chance to get out.

In Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. George Heirens yesterday obtained permission to change their name from Heirens to Hill. No reason for the request was stated on the petition.

Germans are better fed, and their industries are recovering more quickly than any of the European nations they conquered . . . Nazi Marshal von Rundstedt once said: "The destruction of neighboring peoples and their riches is indispensable to our victory. One of the great mistakes of 1918 was to spare the civil life of the enemy countries, for it is necessary for us Germans to be always at least double of the number of peoples of contiguous countries. We are therefore obliged to destroy at least a third of their inhabitants. The only means is organized underfeeding, which in this case is better than machine guns."

Lippmann Today and Tomorrow

WE ARE still a very long way from a treaty governing atomic energy. For the phase of the work which Mr. Baruch and his associates have just completed was only the first, though it was the necessary beginning of what is as complicated and difficult a task as was ever attempted by many governments.

To translate the very general findings into a universal treaty will take a long time. Even if there were full agreement as to what the treaty should say, it would be an immense task to agree on how to say it. But as a matter of fact we are not yet that far. "The safeguards that have been discussed," said Mr. Baruch in his letter of resignation, "are meant only to be indicative of the types of safeguards that must be erected."

There will be no disarmament, atomic or otherwise, unless the rivalry of the great powers is replaced by a concert of the great powers. As long as they are in fact rivals, as they are now, and therefore potential enemies, agreements however promising when they are stated in general terms, will be obstructed by disagreement over concrete details.

* * *

THIS IS NOT in reality a pessimistic view. For it means in practice that we shall be discussing disarmament while we are discussing a political and economic peace. The two discussions will be carried on at the same time. Neither can be concluded separately. Either we shall achieve both peace and disarmament, or we shall get neither.

This in substance is, I take it, what the president meant when he said in his message to congress that "In our steady progress toward a more rational world order, the need for large armed forces is progressively declining; but the stabilizing force of American military strength must not be weakened until our hopes are fully realized. When a system of collective security under the United Nations has been established, we shall be willing to lead in collective disarmament, but, until such a system becomes a reality, we must not again allow our weakness to invite attack."

The visit of the Italian prime minister, is a reminder of what the making of peace requires. Mr. de Gasperi is no ex-enemy statesman. He has never been an enemy, always our ally and the partisan of the civilization which the war was fought to defend. There can be no question here, or indeed anywhere else, that the government of which he is the head has earned the right to the support of the United Nations.

Whatever help we can give him now—both material and moral—we should give him. But in helping Italy, let us realize that Europe cannot be saved merely by helping one country and then another to tide over its immediate difficulties. The help we can give in this fashion will be quite temporary unless we can at the same time provide a plan and a project for the reconstitution of a European system.

More New Cars Due Soon, Dealers Predict

The old family jalopy has a better chance of being replaced by a new model within the next six months than it had at any time during 1946.

"Big improvements" are seen for new car shipments by June, according to Mansfield auto dealers, some of whom said the increase will be noticeable within 30 days.

* * *

PRICES, FOR THE MOST part, are expected to remain stable during 1947 with a slight downward trend by 1948. One dealer said there's more chance of a price increase than a drop in his line.

Steady production on the assembly lines was seen as the only answer to the supply problem. All dealers said their backlogs would last "well into the future."

Robert Moorhead of the R. E. Moorhead Ford sales, said the agency is "looking for big improvements in shipments next month" and that the company has announced that Ford prices "will go down before they'll go up any more." Moorhead said he had some 500 orders on file.

E. D. Gibson, of the Gibson Studebaker Motor sales, has received only a third of his new car quota so far.

* * *

"WE'RE JUST GETTING CARS that we should have had last July and August and our backlog of orders will reach into 1948 unless production is tripled.

"If labor will play ball and produce cars there'll be more cars and labor will have more money," Gibson added. "And, if production is increased, the price will very definitely drop."

A. M. Colby, president of the Colby and Earick Dodge and Plymouth sales, believes the next six months will show a definite improvement in the supply of new cars.

"There's a strong indication now of the lessening of friction between labor and management and we have reason to believe that new cars will be coming through faster soon."

He said he expected the price to remain "about the same" throughout the year, with a possible drop toward the end of 1947.

W. C. Ingram, partner in the Ingram and Martin Oldsmobile Motor sales, said he "doubted if there's much change in price before the 1948 models appear."

* * *

"THE LAST TWO MONTHS have seen more cars coming through and, we definitely expect a noticeable increase in deliveries within the next six months," Ingram commented.

C. J. Solomon, manager of the Weidner Motor sales, expects more Pontiacs in February "than in any months during 1946."

"We expect a small increase in cars each month until production gets into full scale operation again," Solomon said, "but, we don't expect any price decrease. There's more chance of an increase."

Solomon added that the company has promised him a 50 per cent increase in cars this year.

"Even then, it won't be enough to take care of our backlog," he added.

OPERATING COST OF CITY PARKS UP TO $42,000

June Floods Help Push Total $10,000 Over 1945.

It cost more than $42,000 to operate Mansfield's nine parks last year with two June floods helping to push the total some $10,000 above 1945 costs, Park Commission Secretary G. V. Sowers reported today.

Sowers also announced the election of Gordon L. Watson last night as president of the city park commission, to succeed R. S. Gibson. Cyril Hartman was elected vice president, succeeding Edward Wyllie. Frank Burton was re-named parks superintendent and Sowers was re-elected as commission secretary.

The floods, plus extra work in connection with the dedication of the airport, required an additional appropriation of $6,000 in the parks department, Sowers said. At year's end the department had a $3,500 balance, he said.

Major improvements last year included roads at Liberty and South parks, a bridge at South Park and a retaining wall at North Lake park.

Park - by - park expenditures were: Central, $4,358; North Lake, $5,427; Middle and South, $3,739; Maple, $2,395; Johns, $3,133; Prospect, $2,768; Liberty, $4,298; Liberty pool, $2,772 and John Todd park, $1,829.

Major improvements not included in the above total, Sowers said, were costs of Liberty park road, $1,334, and South park road, $950.

Expenses of operating Liberty park pool topped receipts by some $300, Sowers reported. Attendance dropped some 4,000 below that of 1945, he said. It cost $2,772 to operate the pool last year while receipts totaled $2,430, he said.

RIGHT-OF-WAY FOR ROUTE 13 WINS APPROVAL

County commissioners yesterday approved a proposal to establish a right-of-way for eventual construction of a new State Route 13 around Mansfield's municipal airport.

The action came at a formal hearing at which objections and expressions of approval were received from property owners over whose land the three and one-half mile stretch of new roadway would pass.

While several of the land owners gave complete approval and offered free land for establishment of the right-of-way, others expressed a desire for compensation for damages to their land if the road is built.

Hearing Set for Feb. 3.

Accordingly, the commissioners set Feb. 3 at 10 a. m. in their office as the time and place for a hearing on claims for damages.

Next step in the project will be the actual securing of easements for the right-of-way east of the airport, and clearing the property and establishing a grade line, County Engineer Walter E. Rusk said.

The proposal is to obtain the right-of-way and present it to the state department of highways for construction of the state route abandoned in 1944 when work was begun on the airport.

Shaffer Aid Sought.

Rusk said he planned to be in Columbus Thursday and would seek a committment from Murray D. Shaffer, Ohio's new director of highways, on the proposal that the state build the road.

Still needed is permission from the Civil Aeronautics authority to cross land owned by the city of Mansfield as part of the airport.

Arlin Elected to Head City School Board for 14th Year

Harold W. Arlin was re-elected president of the Mansfield board of education at its reorganization meeting last night and began his 14th year as head of the board. He has been president ever since he was elected a member of the organization.

Harold A. Bruce was re-elected vice president.

The board approved the transfer of Glen L. Robinson from principal of the Hedges school to business manager of the city school system and J. B. Moke from business manager to on-the-job training coordinator for the Senior high vocational department.

Miss Irma Manitzer, who has been a teacher at Hedges school, was made principal in charge at the school.

Robinson, who is under a continuing contract, was employed as business manager at $4,000 a year until Aug. 31, 1948. He will remain a member of the schools' administrative staff, subject to Supt. W. L. Miller. Moke will receive $3,040 a year and Miss Manitzer was given $200 a year more than her former pay as a teacher.

The changes had been announced previously by Supt. Miller, but the board hadn't acted on them or set up salaries.

The board last night boosted the bond of Clerk John H. Eisaman from $7,000 to $10,000 a year, in view of the larger amount of money he will handle with the three-mill school levy in effect. His salary was upped $560 a year to $3,600. Eisaman receives his salary as attendance officer. His clerk's contract won't expire until next year.

Dr. Edwin Fensch, director of research in the city schools, was placed on a 12-months-a-year basis at a salary of $3,200 a year.

The board voted to continue its meeting date on the third Monday night of each month at 7:30 p. m.

SIMPLIFIED FORM OFFERED BY BUC

The Bureau of Unemployment Compensation is trying to save Ohio employers some paper work headaches, a BUC official reported today.

A new and simplified form is being used by employers for submitting reports of employes' earnings during the last quarter of 1946, the BUC said.

The new form, known as BUC 475X, is designed to reduce the number of forms which an employer must prepare after each quarter, BUC Administrator Charles H. Jones said.

Detailed instruction sheets concerning use of the form have been sent to all covered employers, Jones said. Additional information can be procured from local BUC offices, he said. Deadline for filing the report is Jan. 31.

Up and Down The Street

TWO IN ONE—

Harold W. Arlin is still chuckling about that talk he made last week before the Norwalk Kiwanis club. Hearing about the new Senior high stadium being built west of the city, a member of the Norwalk club invited Arlin to talk on the problems of building a stadium. Arlin suggested that an officer of the club confirm the invitation.

A few days later Arlin got a letter from the secretary asking him to speak on "Industrial Relations." That was a little confusing so Arlin called his friend to see what had happened. The friend said he'd invited the school superintendent and board of education to hear Arlin talk on stadium problems. A little later Arlin got a copy of the day's program. It said he would speak on "Industrial Relations."

Not sure what was going to happen, Arlin went to Norwalk. When the club chairman introduced him, he said the guest would talk on "Industrial Relations" AND the stadium. Arlin gave a 15-minute talk on each. "That's one way to keep everybody happy," he said.

EASY ON LINES—

City Electrician Ernest Adams reports that some sort of a wire-break record was marked up last year. Annually, careless motorists or high winds knock down poles carrying fire alarm system wires. Usually a score of breaks are recorded in a year. In 1946 only one such wire-snapping episode turned up. That came in September. It was caused by a motorist. This happened despite the fact that the year was dotted with heavy storms and traffic accidents were on the increase.

MORE FOX MONEY—

Richland county's fox hunters may kill all the sly animals they desire now and rest assured they may collect the $3 bounty. The county commissioners yesterday appropriated $2,000 to the fox bounty fund which they hope will last not only until the present bounty law expires March 31 but also for the rest of 1947 in the event the legislature reenacts the statute. Word is that the foxes are still as damaging to poultry and game as ever and that the lawmakers may continue the law as an aid to farmers and hunters. Latest to claim bounties are William Serafino, 473 North Mulberry street, and Herbert W. Schrack, Lucas, each of whom turned in the feet of one red fox. Their kills brought to 563 the number of foxes on which the bounty has been claimed during 1946 and 1947.

Amount of Increases Left To Department Heads; Board Sets Up Funds.

Pay raises ranging from $5 to $25 per month will be granted approximately 180 county employes on and after Jan. 15, a News-Journal survey of county department heads revealed today.

Statements of elected officials and others who employ and set the salary scales of workers in the various county offices indicated the pay boosts will be effective Jan. 1.

The salary boosts came in the wake of the annual county appropriation bill passed by the commissioners yesterday. The bill provided for increased funds for nearly every department, partly to make possible the pay increases.

While some of the department heads said the increases would be on a percentage basis, others put them in terms of dollars-per-month. In most cases, department heads are the hiring and firing authorities who set the salary scales in their own departments.

County commissioners yesterday led the way in granting wage increases, boosting the salaries of 10 employes they hire directly. C. H. Hill, dog warden, was given an increase of $10 per month, as were Newell Smith, courthouse janitor, and George Moore, custodian of the county tuberculosis sanatorium.

Director Gets Raise.

The salary of Dr. Oren A. Beatty, medical director of the sanatorium, was increased from $335 to $350 per month. No increases for nurses and other employes at the sanatorium were given because of recent boosts already in effect. No action was taken for employes of the county home pending recommendations from the superintendent, Grover Dickson.

Salary increases for other departments, as reported by office chiefs, were:

County treasurer—10 per cent to five, employes whose salaries now range from $140 to $250; county recorder—10 per cent to five workers whose pay ranges from $130 to $200; county auditer—an average of eight per cent to eight employes whose salaries range from $145 to $260.

Clerk of courts—approximately 10 per cent to four employes now paid from $150 to $280; common pleas court—seven and one-half per cent to two employes who both earn $185; county prosecutor—$10 per month to the assistant prosecutor whose salary is $225; probate court—approximately $15 per month to eight employes who now earn from $155 to $290.

County engineer—from $8.40 to $15 per month to 62 employes whose salaries range from $160 to $275. County Engineer Walter E. Rusk said wages of laborers are set at levels recommended by the state department of industrial relations.

Sheriff—$10 a month to seven deputies whose salaries range from $231 to $236.

Closing of Bank for Audit Catches Congressmen 'Short'

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Congressmen were fearful today that their checks might "bounce" as the doors of the house bank remained closed pending completion of an audit to determine the extent of missing funds.

Their fears apparently were well-grounded. William Russell, new house sergeant at arms, who ordered the bank closed, declared that "it may well be that some of their checks will bounce back."

Russell said the bank, which is under the jurisdiction of the sergeant at arms, would transact no business until auditors of the general accounting office had completed a check of the books of his predecessor, Kenneth Romney. Reports are that $112,600 is missing.

Meanwhile, approximately one million dollars in members' funds were frozen and many of the 435 congressmen faced a somewhat bleak outlook on funds.

Russell revealed that in an effort to alleviate the plight of members who were unable to obtain funds from other sources he had arranged with a Washington bank to furnish money to needy congressmen. He added that it was purely a personal arrangement between congressmen and the bank.

Send Home for Funds.

Several members unsuccessfully attempted to get their checks cashed by the house postmaster and others telegraphed home for funds. Russell said, it might be three to ten days before the bank reopened.

Some members found themselves in the same position that many notables were in on inauguration day in March 1933 when President Roosevelt suddenly called a bank holiday. On that occasion, however, the house bank remained open.

Much of the missing funds was reportedly covered by worthless checks of a former Florida congressman, dated 1924 and 1925, which have been carried on the books ever since. The books of the house bank have apparently never been audited before.

MANSFIELD-ASHLAND STARTERS ANNOUNCED

Cuff Stuff

By Fred Tharp

THAT MANSFIELD needs a suitable baseball diamond was brought out forcibly again yesterday. . . . Al Hamburg, Marion sportsman, has already posted a $1,125 forfeit with the Ohio State league for a Mansfield franchise, but the catch is, of course, lack of a playing field. . . . Mansfield has been without professional baseball since the Class D Ohio State league folded after the 1941 season because of World War II. . . . The Mansfield Braves at that time used the Fairground ball park. . . . The stands were fine for horse racing but very inadequate for followers of the national pastime.

At the present time the city has one ball diamond, Liberty park. . . . And that is used for high school, junior league, American Legion junior, semi-pro, and Richland county league play. . . . It can't handle the traffic as it is. . . . However, if Mansfield would have a lighted ball park, it would be suitable for pro ball and for amateur and semi-pro competition when the play-for-pay boys were on the road.

Fete Ticket Sale Ends Saturday

Ticket sales for the 11th and greatest News-Journal football jubilee will end Saturday at 6 p. m. The banquet featuring Bo McMillin, famed Indiana football mentor, is scheduled for Jan. 13 at the Coliseum.

Ducats are now available for only $2 at Mansfield Senior and Madison high schools, Tawse pharmacy, Brown's drug store, City News, News-Journal and Sutter's. Ticket sale at the high schools will be concluded Friday afternoon.

Hamburg, who has been wanting to take over a pro franchise for a number of years, is ready and willing to sink money into a Mansfield ball club if a field can be constructed. . . . He has been a member of the board of directors of the Marion club for the last three years but wants a team of his own . . . Marion last year drew 70,000 fans through the turnstiles, which is a highly respectable figure for Class D ball. Middletown dropped out of the eight-team Ohio State loop after the 1946 campaign . . . Although four towns are after the vacant franchise, present club owners lean toward Mansfield or Muncie, Ind., for the eighth league berth. . . Others interested are Portsmouth and Charleston, W. Va. . . . Muncie has a fine ball diamond but owners of the Marion, Newark, Zanesville and Lima clubs like Mansfield because of the natural rivalry. . . . Lima was the only club in the OSL when the Braves last played in 1941. . . . Tiffin, Fremont, Findlay and Fostoria were in that Ohio State league. . . . Dayton, Springfield, Richmond, Ind., Marion, Lima, Newark and Zanesville make up the present circuit.

Richmond built a ball park in 1945 for $20,000 with a seating capacity of 3,500. . . . Ralph Hardy, with whom Hamburg conferred here yesterday, figures that Mansfield could have a playing field complete with grandstand and lights for an outlay of $15,000. . . . All the project needs is approval of the Mansfield city council. . . . Construction of the park could be completed before the 1947 season opens.

Hardy helped organize Mansfield's junior baseball program last summer.

The St. Louis Cardinals through their Columbus Red Birds farm club have shown interest in backing a team in Mansfield . . . If Hamburg can get definite word this week on the construction of a Mansfield ball park he will post a $3,000 guarantee of operation at a meeting of OSL club owners next Sunday at Dayton. . . . The franchise will be awarded to one of the interested groups at that time

TYGERS SLIGHT UNDERDOGS IN 69TH RENEWAL

Bengals Lead Series; Dick Messner Top Scorer.

Coaches this morning announced starting lineups for the 69th renewal of the Mansfield-Ashland basketball rivalry tonight on the Tyger court.

The Tyger sophomores meet the Ashland JayVee's in the preliminary contest at 7 p. m.

Mansfield mentor Vern Hoffman plans to go along with Ralph Majors and Tommy Bloor, forwards; Chuck Sisco, center and Ollie Cline and Nick Gagich, guards. Coach C E Taylor of the A's will use Dick Messner and Dave Burns, forwards; Don Drebus, center and Dick Cooper and Bob Harpster, guards.

Indications point to the starting lineups being in there most of the way as both schools are short on reserve strength. Hoffman can use Phil Pittinger and Shelley Swank for replacements while Taylor will rely on Mike or Tony Glasser if misfortune strikes any of the first five.

Mansfield has won 36 of the 68 contests between the two schools but will go into tonight's battle as slight underdogs. Ashland has won five of six games this season, including four in a row. The Tygers have come out on top five times in eight games.

Taylor has only one letterman, Messner. However the clever junior is one of the best shots in this part of Ohio. He has counted 94 shots in six games, an average of 15.7 a game. Cline, playing his third year of varsity ball, leads the Bengals with 83 markers.

In addition to Cline, Majors and Sisco won letters in 1945-46. However, Cline was the only starter as Ashland won both games last year, 47 to 43 and 36 to 35. Sisco subbed in the first game and both he and Majors served as replacements in the second encounter.

Cline notched 14 markers and Messner 15 in the first game last year.

Tyger officials expect another capacity crowd for the contest tonight and caution that first come-first served. A block of 300 seats will be saved for Ashland fans. However, if the A's rooters are not seated by the start of the preliminary game anyone can use the space

Schedule Boycott Could Enforce 'Amateur' Code

By BOB GRUBB

NEW YORK—(AP)—The 252 member colleges of the National Collegiate Athletic association are going to be asked whether they are ready to apply "sanctions" against schools which provide, among other things, room and board for star athletes.

The threat of a schedule boycott would be the means of enforcing the basic code of amateurism in athletics, according to recommendations drawn by the NCAA's "conference of conferences" here yesterday.

The group, representing virtually every college conference and a number of so-called independent schools, recommends a set of five principles which it proposes to implement with an agreement that the schools which adhere to them will not play the non-conformist schools.

This hot potato will be handed over to the regular NCAA convention tomorrow.

The principle on amateurism not only reaffirms the standard Amateur Athletic Union and Olympic definition of an amateur, but adds that "any college athlete who takes pay for participation in athletics does not meet this definition of an amateur."

Under this principle, room and board usually supplied to scholarship athletes is outlawed unless an athlete actually works for it.

The Southeastern conference, which permits athletic scholarships including room and board, books and other necessities, is held up as the principal non-conformist group. The Southeastern conference previously had indicated it would change its rules to conform with any adopted by the NCAA.

A second principle on "institutional control and responsibility," on which the NCAA was founded in 1905, says that the college itself in the final analysis shall exercise them.

The third principle, "sound academic standards," decrees that an athlete must be admitted to a college in the same manner as any other student and maintain the same academic standards.

Under-cover subsidies are hit in the fourth principle, dealing with "financial aids to athletes." This rules out all payments to athletes other than through regular grants and scholarships open to all students An exception is made, however, for government grants and scholarships, which may cover more than just tuition. Pay for student jobs may not be excessive and no athlete is to be deprived of a scholarship for failure to compete in athletics.

After considerable discussion, a fifth principle was adopted decreeing that no member of an athletic staff or official representative of athletic interests may engage in off-campus solicitation of students or offer financial aid to prospective students.

The implementation clause carries the "sanction" weapon, but since the NCAA is an advisory and not a regulatory organization, it has no police power.

The organization, if it adopts the implementation clause, would expect each college member to act as its own policeman by boycotting colleges which are known to violate the code.

Smokehouse Five Gains Tie In City A League

Smokehouse courtmen gained a first place tie with Richland Beverage in the first division of the City A basketball league at the Senior high gym last night. Smokehouse defeated American Legion Post 72, 36 to 23.

The Cuemen took a first period lead, 9-4, and then Legion Post 72 knotted the count, 12-12, at the intermission.

Russ Hoff, Smokehouse forward, found the range in the second half and netted four baskets and two free tosses to put his team out in front, 23-18, as the third quarter ended.

Losing the services of Ed Swartz, towering center, midway in the second quarter, Ohio Sports Center relinquished a 16-10 lead at the half to allow Urschel Insurance to eke out a 26-25 win.

This win gives the Insurancemen undisputed possession of first place in the second division. They were tied with Mansfield Tire with two wins against one loss. The Tire quintet was idle last night.

Substitute forward Lee Crownover supplied the punch for the Insurance agency as he splashed two field goals and six free tosses through the hoop.

Jimmy Toals paced the Sports Center with 11 points.

McCarrick's Gulf last quarter burst of 13 points fell short and Yunckers stopped the Gasmen, 32-27.

Getting off to a 11-7 lead at the first intermission, Yunckers built up a 21-9 margain at the half Yunckers scored their final 11 points in the third while McCarrick's picked up five.

Automatic Ben Wins Open By 3 Strokes

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Automatic Ben Hogan, coasting to an easy three-stroke win in his first 1947 start, the Los Angeles Open, was more concerned today with his ailing shoulder than future golf tournaments.

"I'm heading for a San Antonio clinic right after the Phoenix Open at the end of this month," said Hogan after he had breezed in with a 280, four under par for 72 holes over the rugged Riveria layout.

"I can't take much more of this," added the 135-pound Hershey, Pa., dynamiter, explaining that his left shoulder bothered him throughout the four-day tournament.

Second place Toney Penna, Cincinnati, two strokes behind at 54 holes, challenged courageously with a first nine 33 on yesterday's final round, then collapsed to 40 for a 73 and final score of 283.

Ed Oliver, Wilmington, Del., another leader, slipped to 75 and a sixth place 288.

With his nearest competitors fading so obligingly, it was a snap for "Iceman" Hogan to come in with a 72, one over par, and still pick up a stroke on the field.

He also picked up the $2,000 first money. His 280 was the best 72-hole score ever posted for the Open at Riviera, as he duplicated his triumph here in 1942.

Penna received $1,400 in consolation balm.

INDIANA STOOPS STATE STREAK AT 23 GAMES

Ohio State's unbeaten chain of 23 home games was snipped last night as Indiana humbled the defending Western conference title holders 62 to 39 in a lethargic basketball contest.

Meanwhile in Detroit, Cincinnati upset Wayne university, 47 to 36.

Five minutes of the first half elapsed before Indiana's Don Ritter opened the scoring with a field goal. Ohio State didn't get started until half the first period had elapsed when Center Jack Underman rang up a field goal.

The Hoosiers held the Bucks scoreless for seven minutes after halftime, then doubled the count 40 to 20 midway through the period.

The Ohio State setback was attributed to faulty shooting. The Bucks tried 71 field shots and made only 13, while Indiana cagers attempted 72 and succeeded with 20.

It was Ohio State's first home loss since Purdue downed it in 1944. The victory was the Hoosiers' first in Big Nine play this season. Ohio State won its opener last Saturday from Minnesota.

Indiana's Ralph Hamilton paced the scorers with 14 points. Ritter was second with 13.

Cincinnati's triumph was the sixth in nine games this season, rolling over Wayne behind Bill Westerfield's high score of 12 points. A sparse crowd of 544 saw the Tartars take their second beating against no victories in Mid America conference play. For Cincinnati, it was the second triumph against one loss in league competition.

In the only other Ohio game the Youngstown Penguins defeated Muskingum 50 to 48 at Youngstown. It was the home five's fifth win in eight games this season. The Penguins dropped behind in the second half, but clinched the contest in the last two minutes.

Scores 19, Team Loses

B. Eccles efforts of 19 points went for naught, and his Roseland quintet dropped a 28 to 24 decision to Mansfield Plummers last night in the Junior league tilt at the Friendly House gym.

In the other contests, the Junior Optimists defeated the Wild Cats, 25 to 20, and Marshall's Market whizzed by Saprano's Cigar store, 18 to 11.

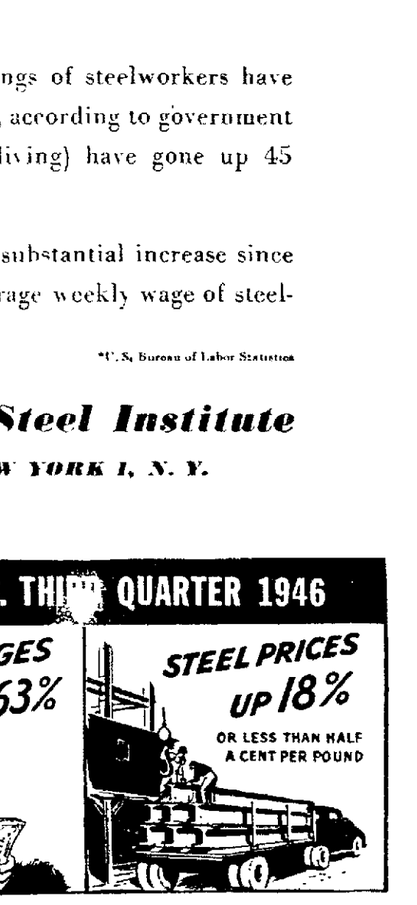
Steel wages have outstripped the Cost of living



Everybody's battling the high cost of living these days. On the average, steel workers' wages have kept ahead of the advance in the cost of necessities.

Since January 1939, weekly earnings of steelworkers have increased by 63* per cent. Meanwhile, according to government figures,* consumers' prices (cost of living) have gone up 45 per cent.

This means that there has been a substantial increase since 1939 in the buying power of the average weekly wage of steelworkers.

Bedtime Stories

—By Thornton W. Burgess

HARD ON BOTH

Danny Meadow Mouse sat beside a small hole in the crust that covered the snow on the Green Meadows. It was a hole he had made himself beside a stout weed stalk up which he had climbed to make that hole. All around the tops of other weeds stood above the snow. Many of them held seeds that rough Brother North Wind had not yet shaken out.

Danny had been having a good time running about on the crust from weed to weed. Some of those seeds were very much to his liking. It was fun to gather them. Some he could reach by just sitting up. For others he had to climb a little. These were in the tops of extra tall weeds. It was exciting fun for all the time he had to watch for the approach of hungry hunters, especially fond of plump Meadow Mice. One of these was Reddy Fox.

Now everybody knows that Reddy Fox is a smart hunter, but only those whom he hunts know how smart he is. Watchful as Danny was Reddy somehow had managed to get so near that had Danny's tail been an inch longer he would have been caught before he could dive into a hole in the crust. It had been a narrow escape. But narrow escapes are every day affairs with Danny Meadow Mouse and no sooner was he safe in his tunnels under the snow than he scampered for a weed stalk leading up to another round hole. Cautiously he peeped out with no more than his nose and eyes above the opening. Right away he saw Reddy Fox sitting down watching the hole by which he, Danny, had escaped. He watched Reddy for a moment or two then climbed out and sat down close to the hole.

"Waiting for some one?" squeaked Danny.

Reddy turned. "So there you are," said he and grinned.

"Yes, here I am, but I won't be here if you come any nearer," Danny squeaked.

"No need to tell me that. You came out the wrong hole—for me," grinned Reddy.

"But the right hole for me," squeaked Danny. "Aren't you ashamed, Reddy Fox?"

Reddy looked puzzled. "Ashamed of what?" he asked.

"Of hunting others so much smaller than yourself. Why don't you hunt folks your own size? If I were great big you, I would be ashamed to make life so hard for little me," squeaked Danny.

"Yet I suppose you think it is all right for little you to make life so hard for grea big me?" replied Reddy, and grinned broadly.

Danny's little eyes snapped angrily. "That isn't funny," he cried in his squeaky voice.

"No, it isn't funny at all," agreed Reddy. "So why not sit still now and let me catch you?" He didn't grin this time and Danny Meadow Mouse had an odd feeling that Reddy hadn't been trying to be funny.

"What do you mean by little me making life hard for great big you?" he asked.

"Do you have plenty to eat this cold weather? Can you always go get what you need when you are hungry?" asked Reddy as if changing the subject.

"Of course I have plenty to eat. Why shouldn't I?" squeaked Danny.

"You should have. I'm glad you do. All of us should have, but not all of us do. You think that being hunted makes life hard for you. I suppose it does. But if you are smart, and so far you have been too smart for me, you can always run away and hide. And you always get all you want to eat. Your food doesn't run away and hide from you. If you think it is hard to be hunted you should try being a hunter so hungry you can think of nothing but food and unable to get any, or only enough to make you still hungrier. If you Mice would let us Foxes catch you life would be a lot easier for us. So, if I make life hard for you by trying to catch you, you make life hard for me by not being caught," explained Reddy. "Now will you let me catch you?" he added.

"No!" squeaked Danny and dived into the hole beside him as Reddy moved as if to come over there. Reddy just grinned. Then he sighed. He was very hungry.

Try and Stop Me

—By Bennet Cerf

The quick-tempered Clarence Day, author of "Life With Father," was once taken ill at a summer resort. His wife, very much against his will, summoned the local doctor.

That night she demanded, "Clarence, did you follow that physician's prescription?" "If I had," snorted Day, "they'd probably be tfeating me for a broken neck, because I threw it down three flights of stairs."

A shambling old character was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary. The judge asked him if he had anything to say. The old man inquired, "Ain't you bein' a bit liberal with my time?"

A bumpkin was brought to Dr. Samuel Johnson's table in a tavern one night, and having heard of Johnson's savage wit in advance, played safe by roaring with laughter at everything the Doctor said. One shattering guffaw finally exhausted Johnson's patience. "I must be in terrible form tonight," he grumbled. "This imbecile seems to comprehend everything I say."

ONE OUT OF 10 CARS DAMAGED

BUCYRUS—One out of every ten automobiles in Bucyrus was damaged in traffic accidents last year, a report issued by Safety Patrolman Charles E. Ghist disclosed today.

The police department investigated 240 accidents during 1946, with two persons killed and 57 injured. In 1945, only 146 accidents were reported, with two dead and 22 injured.

Ghist said that of the 1946 total, 128 accidents occurred at intersections, and 35 involved collisions between trucks and passenger cars.

The department's traffic safety campaign resulted in 82 arrests for driving while under the influence of alcohol, speeding and reckless operation. More than 200 tickets were issued for speeding, failure to observe stop signs and traffic lights.

September was the most dangerous month of the year, the report showed, with 31 accidents.

6 PLANES SENT TO CITY UNDER TRAINING PLAN

Every-8-Day Schedule Set Up by AAF Association.

Six army air force training planes will be at Mansfield airport every eighth day as part of a training program to keep former army air officers in flying trim, officials of the Mansfield Air Force squadron announced today.

Some 40 men from the Mansfield area who flew during the war are participating in the program, James McConnell, Mansfield squadron official, said.

The planes, assigned from a Cleveland army air base, began the eight-day schedule over the weekend. They'll be at the port again next Sunday and Monday and the following week on Monday and Tuesday, maintaining the every-eighth-day schedule, McConnell said.

The Mansfield squadron of the Army Air Force association is cooperating with the AAF in sponsoring the training program here. McConnell and Robert McClurg, both members of the local association, are acting as operations officers for the program.

AT-6, advanced army trainers, are now being used for transition work and later multi-engine planes aret o be assigned here, McConnell said. Former officers participating in the program fly about an hour and a half each week, he said.

The men are required to measure up to army physical standards. Dr. Russell Barnes, Mansfield physician and former army flight surgeon, examines the men.

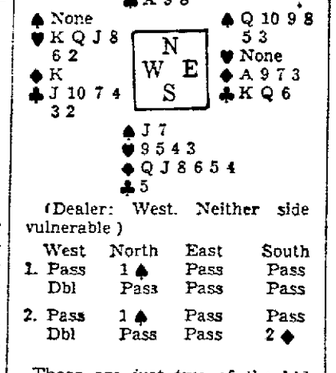
JAP WHO SET PEARL HARBOR DATE DIES

TOKYO —(U.P.)— Fleet Admiral Osami Nagano, 66, chief of the Japanese naval general staff when Pearl Harbor was attacked, died Sunday of bronchial pneumonia, his defense attorney announced at the war crimes trial here.

It was Nagano who, shortly after the Japanese surrender, admitted "full responsibility" for the Pearl Harbor sneak blow in an interview with the Japanese press. He alone set the date for the attack, according to allied prosecution evidence.

Barclay On Bridge

THERE IS nothing predictable when all four players possess unbalanced distributions, consisting of long suits and short suits, with none of them fitting too well. Even with the best class of players competing, there is nothing standard about the action taken by the various participants. Ordinarily, the better the players, the more careful they become when they find that a likely misfit of all concerned. If one of them learns about a single well-fitting suit, then he may bid strongly, but not otherwise.



(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1. Pass	1 ♠	Pass	Pass
Dbl	Pass	Pass	Pass
2. Pass	1 ♠	Pass	Pass
Dbl	Pass	Pass	2 ♦

Those are just two of the bidding sequences on this deal. Other tables in the big duplicate did entirely different things, with identical action not coming at any two tables. There were cases where West bid clubs on his first chance to overcall the 1-Spade, also those where he bid hearts, and obviously these variations influenced what followed.

Probably the worst bidding of all was that at Table 2 where South was allowed to play for 2-Diamonds and made it exactly, with the defenders ruffing a heart, scoring two regular trump tricks and two in hearts.

The highest contract anybody managed to make was where West got into 3-Clubs after bidding hearts as his first overcall and his other suit next.

One peculiarity is that the spade suit was trump for East at one table, at the range of two, because he redoubled when North doubled him. The club went to the A, the 9 was ruffed, a heart to the K and A was ruffed, the spade Q went to the K, diamond 10 to the K, heart Q and J brought East diamond discards, and he thereafter lost only to the spade A, so scored an extra.

SOLDIER RELAXES—Chief of Staff Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower makes an approach shot to the 18th green on the golf course at Pratt General Hospital in Coral Gables, Fla., where he has been resting and undergoing a general checkup. The famed soldier reaffirmed his assertion that he is not available as a presidential candidate. He termed himself: "A soldier who is devoted to the job of commanding the army."

Two Area Men Succumb to Heart Attacks

Two Mansfield area residents were found dead yesterday, and in both cases death was attributed by authorities to heart attacks.

Dead were Harry Glenn May, 56, of Shelby, who was found in the bathroom of the house at which he had been rooming, and George Horner, 44, of Danville, whose body was found on the Pennsylvania railroad tracks in Millersburg.

* * *

HARRY GLENN MAY

SHELBY — Harry Glenn May, 56, World War I veteran, was found dead at the home of Mrs. Bessie Wood, where he had been rooming, about 1:15 p. m. yesterday.

Death was due to a heart attack suffered several hours earlier, according to Shelby police who were called to the Wood home.

He had been employed at the Roethlisberger Transfer company until ill health forced his retirement last year. He is survived by two aunts, Mrs. Etta Shultz, of Toledo, and Mrs. Della Reidel, of Shelby.

The body is at the Barkdull funeral home where services will be held Thursday at 1:30 p. m. Rev. D. Bruce Young will have charge, assisted by the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery.

GEORGE HORNER

MILLERSBURG — George Horner, 44, was found dead along the Pennsylvania tracks, about 50 feet from the station, yesterday at 11 a. m. by Horace Mitten, a railroad employe. Death was due to a heart attack, according to Dr. A. J. Earney, Holmes county coroner.

Mr. Horne rwas employed at Danville and when found had a ticket to Danville in his pocket. It is believed by railroad officials that he was on his way to the station to take the train when he died.

Surviving are four brothers, William, of Wooster, Howard and Ross, of Holmesville, and Harvey, of Millersburg, and two sisters, Mrs. Ella Bucklew and Mrs. Ralph Jordan, both of Millersburg.

SHELBY COUNCIL TOLD TO BUILD NEW CITY HALL

SHELBY — A recommendation by City Engineer Boyd Wierman that Shelby construct a new city hall on the site of the present building was under study today by the city council.

Wierman urged that in lieu of a new structure, the city and municipal utility offices be remodeled. He made the recommendations in his annual report on projects worthy of consideration in 1947.

Wierman of Mansfield, who said money would be available for such a project, told the council at its regular semi-monthly meeting in the city hall last night that Shelby has needed a new city building for many years and that next year would be a good year to build.

Wierman also recommended that the council prepare to improve the Shelby avenue drainage ditch, which has caused water to back up into the basements of adjacent homes in the Shelby and Jeffrey avenue area.

He said the council should consider accepting a plat of the Waldruff addition providing that easements be given on the east to Mansfield avenue for utilities. The Waldruff addition is near Mansfield avenue road south of the corporation line.

* * *

Petition Received.

A petition was received and placed on file for the West Jefferson avenue sanitary sewer.

During the meeting, the council approved planting trees on the city water reservoir grounds to be furnished by the reforestration division of the Shelby Conservation association. Several thousand trees will be planted on the site in March.

Crawford Board Renames Heinlen

BUCYRUS—Lawrence Heinlen was reelected chairman of the board of county commissioners when the board held its reorganization meeting yesterday. One new commissioner, E. R. Leonard, assumed his duties. Walter Sargel is the third commissioner. James Kehrer was again named clerk for 1947.

Other reappointments were those of Frank Zerbe, Sulphur Springs, dog warden; Dr. D. D. Bibler and Dr Jack Arnold, physicians for the county jail and county home respectively. William Schell and Paul Fox were renamed janitors of the courthouse.

'State of the Union' Message Reveals Prospect of Controversy Over Issues

WHILE much of President Truman's lengthy "State of the Union" message, delivered to congress yesterday, appeared as no more than a re-statement of obvious needs, several of his recommendations are of sufficiently controversial nature as to assure heated argument in house and senate before anything in the way of agreement can be reached.

The president's approach to "the labor problem," for instance, was in mild manner, although recognizing that present conditions are intolerable and must be corrected. He suggests legislation to prevent jurisdictional strikes, secondary boycotts and use of economic force; also extension of facilities to assist collective bargaining, and a temporary joint commission "to inquire into the entire field of labor-management relations."

Experience during 1946 provided convincing proof that some restraint on irresponsible labor leadership is required if there is to be any real progress toward full employment and increased production, but, as the president cautions: "We must not, in order to punish a few labor leaders, pass vindictive laws which restrict the proper rights of the rank and file of labor."

That is the difficult spot in which congress is placed as it approaches the task of legislating restraints without hampering the recognizedly legitimate field of union labor activities, and in this association the president advises: "It is up to labor to refrain from pressing for unjustified wage increases that will force increases in the price level."

"It is also up to industry," he said, "not only to hold the line on existing prices but to make reductions whenever profits justify such action"—which is as factual a statement as you are likely to find anywhere.

Identifying the province of government, in easy-like style, President Truman added: "And it is up to government to do everything in its power to encourage high-volume production, for that is what makes possible good wages, low prices and reasonable profits"

* * *

ON ANOTHER important problem—that of tax reduction—there is appearance of wide difference of opinion between the executive and the congressional majority, for Mr. Truman emphasizes the importance of a balanced budget over immediate tax reduction while Republican congressmen are pledged to make a considerable cut in both income and excise taxes—which, if practicable, will be joyfully received by millions of hard-pressed taxpayers.

It is noteworthy that Congressman J. Harry McGregor, of this district, is among the first to present an income tax reduction bill, and that his bill is designed to most greatly benefit those in the lower income brackets, with provision for specific application of a percentage of each year's national income to reduction of the public debt.

It is also President Truman's idea that the present high tax on jewelry, furs, and many other so-called "luxury" items, should continue through at least another year—as a budget-balancing requirement—while a majority of congressmen favor immediate reduction instead of waiting until the June 30 automatic expiration under the war-time law.

ENDORSEMENT of a universal training program and merging of the armed forces is another of the controversial issues presented in the president's address, with promise of "a further early communication" on this subject.

Frank recognition of a situation which was brought forcefully to public notice by the recent Bilbo controversy is found in the president's mention of attacks on constitutional rights of citizens as a result of "racial and religious bigotry," which prevent segments of citizens from voting and deny freedom to engage in some occupations.

Touching on many subjects of domestic and international import, Mr. Truman closed on the religious note, "May the Lord strengthen us in our faith. May He give us wisdom to lead the people of the world in the way of peace."

And such traditional appeal to the Almighty would carry greater confidence in its sincerity were it not that the sinister shadow of Bilbo and his malefaction still hangs so darkly above the beautiful picture of democracy in action.

Legislative Program Awaits Herbert

ABSENT through no fault of his own, when the Ohio general assembly convened yesterday, was Richland county's popular and experienced representative, John L. Catlett. Taken ill a week ago, Catlett is still confined to General hospital where his condition is reported fair. While the county extends its earnest wishes for Mr. Catlett's prompt recovery, its eyes turn to what his colleagues are doing in Columbus.

They are faced with a mild dilemma of reducing taxes and increasing expenditures. Of course, they have a surplus of $160,000,000 to dip into to solve the "impossible." But how they dip will be carefully watched by the taxpayers who provided that $160,000,000.

Paradoxically, the new legislature, which is strongly Republican-dominated, got its recommendation yesterday from Governor Frank J. Lausche, Democrat, who is soon to be succeeded by Governor-elect Thomas J. Herbert, Republican. What is likely to come of Governor Lausche's recommendations—highly respected though he has as an official—is not hard to guess. The GOP will wait, and will get, its own program of state finances and general operation. What that will be remains to be disclosed.

Education As Crime Preventive

ECONOMICALLY minded taxpayers are being given something to think about. They should spend more money on schools, says J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the FBI.

If they dislike the idea, they should remember that crime costs money, too, and the more spent on education, the less will have to go for crime-prevention.

Four navy veterans who think that the world is in a mess, have gone on a cruise to the West Indies "till things settle down." Evidently they are optimists, or else they like the West Indies as a permanent place of residence.

Absenteeism which resulted in a recent shutdown of a Detroit industry was attributed to holiday hangovers, or—as Harry Wade puts it—"The Lost Year-End."

Just why it is called "portal-to-portal" instead of "gate-to-gate" isn't quite clear—unless there's a fear that someone might suggest: "Give 'em the gate."

Missouri Governor 'Talks Back' On Subject of Federal Dictation

By RAYMOND MOLEY

PRESIDENT TRUMAN has been learning a stiff lesson in states' rights from a fellow Missouri Democrat, Governor Phil Donnelly. He is also getting some straight talk about what Missouri thinks of the federal bureaucracy.

The controversy began because the United States department of labor refused to give the state of Missouri funds necessary to the operation of its employment offices.

It based this drastic action on the fact that Missouri refused to pay salaries equivalent to those which had been paid by the federal government.

As a war measure, the states, on Jan. 1, 1942, lent their employment services to the federal government. Washington operated them through the war and then refused to return them until congress forced the issue in the 1946 session. The law passed by congress required the return of the employment services to the states on Nov. 15 and provided that the states must retain, in reasonably comparable positions, the employes of the federal service.

The labor department interpreted this provision to mean that the salaries paid to those employes must be comparable to those paid by the federal government.

Governor Donnelly answered this by pointing out that the Missouri constitution prohibits the payment of such salaries because they would be out of line with salaries paid for comparable services by the state government.

The governor reinforced his refusal by pointing out that every federal appropriation bill prohibited the federal government from paying salaries out of line with those which would have been paid by the states.

Despite this, Governor Donnelly declared, "most of the employes of the employment service, while under federal control, have been receiving salaries in excess of those paid state employes in comparable positions." He charged further that "if the federal law had been complied with by Schwellenbach's office, we would have no controversy today over salaries."

For good measure, Governor Donnelly added: "The action of the bureaucrats in Washington in withholding federal funds granted by congress for paying the personnel of the state employment service is evidence of the continuous attempt of Washington's bureaucrats to run the affairs of state government. These and all other federal grants are paid for by the taxpayers of all states, including Missouri.

Aside from the importance of employment offices to hard-pressed business these days, there are other serious aspects of this action.

Unemployment benefits are also handled by employment offices. That brought the Social Security board into the picture, with further complications.

Latest reports are that the Missouri employment offices are still open, but employes have had no pay since Nov. 15. There have been extended negotiations, but neither side seems disposed to give in.

Once more, we have a demonstration not only of how hard it is to recover a state function, once yielded to Washington, but of the arbitrary manner with which such functions can be handled by the federal bureaucracy.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

Golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bissman.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

On January 7, 1935, the United States Supreme Court—with the late Justice Cardozo alone dissenting—outlawed the oil production control provisions of the National Industrial Recovery Act.

Dave Boone Says:

GENERAL "Ike" Eisenhower says he is not considering "operation White House." Nothing has eased the minds of the other candidates so much in all their political lives.

* * *

Eisenhower has one of those winning personalities that come along once every 20 or 30 years, and it is coupled with a good brain, proven courage and native horse-sense. If he really came out for presidency, he could scuttle most of the others.

* * *

"Ike" is that rare specimen, a soldier who doesn't seem a soldier. He's an all-around man with all-around abilities, if you ask me. And he would be a great leader anywhere.

A lot of folks think he could be drafted. And under the draft rules, the fact you "are not considering" a job never has been accepted as an exemption.

Listen World: "It's Up To You!"

NINETEEN Forty Seven on the way. What percentage will you be able to show by 1948?

That depends on you!

A mark on the calendar won't make a New Year for you. The racket of bells, horns and bottled gin won't necessarily usher it in. If that's your only conception of a new year, you're out of luck. Meaning what?

Meaning this—

NO YEAR WILL BE REALLY NEW FOR YOU UNLESS YOU GET NEW YOURSELF.

There are lots of months ahead which you haven't lived yet, but living doesn't mean just existing 24 hours a day or walking in the same old household or business rut or thinking the same old notions. Living means action . . . working at laughter and love . . . being eager . . . risking grief and discomfort and shock as life moves on.

And those "New Year opportunities" you anticipate — they're there but they won't do you a darn bit of good unless you cooperate. It takes two to make any opportunity—you and the setup.

Your record of the past year held new ideas and opportunities too. But were you willing to cooperate? Or do you expect luck to "just happen?" And if you weren't willing to co-operate, why are you so all fired sure you'll be remade between 11:55 p. m. Dec. 31 and midnight?

As for "turning a new leaf"—you can turn a thousand leaves in your mind but you'll never get anywhere until you turn them in your conduct.

New Year resolutions? Maybe you're a bit leary of them. Hell, you've heard, is paved with good resolutions. So what?

Heaven can be built on them too.

So it's up to you. Are you really going to be part of this new vastly altered world of 1947, taking its challenges and changes in your stride? Or are you going to stick in the mothballs and whine about "the good old times?" Which actually never were so hot except in your memory.

Choose—1947 or 1907. It's up to you.

MOSCOW radio says our poets did a poor job in the war. . . . More and more it becomes obvious we needed the atom bomb to turn back the forces of evil.

The complaint is that while Russian rhymsters were energizing with epics, our boys were quibbling with couplets.

Still the arts were heavy contributors to victory. . . . Who can ever forget Toscanini's threat never to downbeat his baton again until Fascism had crumpled.

That gesture alone plus a little help from the armed forces polished off Mussolini.

We have a painter over here now who defied the Axis gangsters by boarding ship and sailing away from them in 1939. . . . He waved his brushes at them from 3,000 miles distance and they couldn't lay a finger on him.

Moscow can complain but we know the typewriters that were stilled, the brushes that rested in turpentine, the pens that would write under water but not under war.

Forrestal Angles For Byrnes' Job; Morse Rebukes GOP 'Kingmakers'

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—A lot of jockeying is still going on backstage to take Jimmie Byrnes' place if he resigns as secretary of state—even though it now looks as if Byrnes had regained his health.

Up until recently there was three chief possibilities for the job—General George Marshall, General Eisenhower, and Secretary of the Navy Forrestal.

Neither Marshall nor Eisenhower have pushed themselves for the job. On the contrary. However, Marshall was Truman's candidate, while Eisenhower was the candidate of George Allen.

Around Christmas time, however, Marshall's friends made it clear that he was fed up with being a diplomat, did not relish becoming secretary of state and wanted to retire to Virginia as soon as his job in China was finished.

In regard to General Eisenhower, it was George Allen's idea to put him in the key job of secretary of state as a build-up for the presidency—if Truman does not run again. Eisenhower grew up as a Kansas Democrat, made his first public speech at a Jackson day dinner and was picked by a Democratic administration to be supreme commander.

Third—and most active—candidate for the state department is Jimmie Forrestal, who, a bit bored with running the navy has been itching to get his hands on foreign policy for many months.

Those who follow state department affairs figure he would be the least qualified of the three—despite the general public sentiment against having a military man at the helm of foreign policy.

Note—President Truman is very much hoping that Byrnes will remain on as secretary of state indefinitely. Despite some personal misunderstandings one year ago, Byrnes and Truman have now become warm friends, and the president gives him full rein over foreign policy.

The Senate Kingmakers.

It was probably Senator Wayne Morse, Oregon Republican, who first inspired the name "kingmakers" as applied to his GOP colleagues, Taft, Vandenberg, and White and their now successful efforts to crown their own men as chairmen of senate committees.

Though Senators Reed (Kans.), Tobey (N. H.), and Wilson (Ia.) got most of the publicity for battling the kingmakers, it was legal-minded Morse of Oregon, former dean of the Oregon University law school, who embarrassed them most.

His tripping-up tactics came during the secret debate on the GOP committee on committees after young Senator Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, grandson of the senator who defeated the League of Nations, had been proposed as a member of the senate foreign relations committee.

The kingmakers had selected two Easterners, Lodge and Smith of New Jersey, together with one Midwesterner, Hickenlooper of Iowa, as new members of this vital committee.

This brought an immediate protest from Morse.

"I consider it strange," he said, "that you have given seats to three men from the relative East and not one seat to the Pacific Coast. Apparently you ignore the fact that we on the Pacific face great problems with the Japanese and Chinese, and that one important phase of the war was fought from our shores.

"If you think that is the way to bring harmony to the Republican party," continued the gentleman from Oregon, "by ignoring one great segment of the party, then I serve notice right now that I intend to stand up and fight for the Pacific Coast."

Taft Protests.

At this point, Senator Taft argued that Lodge was entitled to a post on the foreign relations committee since he had resigned from the senate to go to war, thus losing his seniority rights.

"I want to make it clear," replied Morse, "that I have no objection to Mr. Lodge. I think he is eminently qualified to serve. But the time to have settled this was in the meeting of the steering committee when Senator Tobey proposed restoring Mr. Lodge's seniority rights. I was in complete agreement with Senator Tobey, but it was Mr. Lodge himself who withdrew his seniority claim and you gentlemen applauded his withdrawal. That decision should stand.

"I'm not asking for the vacancy myself," Morse concluded. "If any other Western Republican has more seniority, the post should go to him. But the West is entitled to representation."

However, the well-oiled kingmakers' machine was functioning perfectly. On a vote, the Oregon senator was overwhelmingly turned down.

After the vote, forthright kingmaker Vandenberg, who is chairman of the new foreign relations committee, rose half-apologetically to say:

"I want to explain my vote. It was influenced by the fact that the committee's report is already printed and has been circulated for some time. We can't change it now. However, I agree completely with the senator from Oregon that a West Coast man should be on the foreign relations committee. And I want to go on record that the next vacancy on the committee should go to the Pacific Coast."

Backstage Deal.

This brought smiles to the faces of several anti-kingmakers. They figured that this put Ohio's Taft and his presidential ambitions in a hole. Obviously he didn't want to antagonize the West. Perhaps this was why he sought out Morse as soon as the secret meeting was over, and in doing so inadvertantly let the cat out of the bag.

"Wayne, I just feel awful about this," Taft said. "There should be a West Coast man on the committee. But I think Lodge did one of the most patriotic things I know when he left the senate to go into the army, and we just had to give him a place on the foreign relations committee."

The anti-kingmakers have now heard that this was the pay-off. If Lodge had been given his full seniority as proposed by New Hampshire's Tobey, he would have ranged right up with the kingmakers. In fact he would have been chairman of the finance committee instead of Millikin of Colorado, a strong Taft man, and a deputy kingmaker. So instead of giving Lodge full seniority, a deal was worked out whereby he was given a place on the vital foreign relations committee — a position he has coveted ever since the days his grandfather killed Woodrow Wilson's peace efforts after World War I.

Note — Wonder what twist grandson Lodge's appointment will give to history and our future co-operation for world peace?

Assignment, America: "Take a Look, Folks."

WASHINGTON — There must be something mighty fine about the whole-souled welcome Washington gives new congressmen coming to town.

I mean, they have serious problems on their hands. After all, this is one of the toughest legislative periods in the nation's history—maybe the world's history.

And some of the newcomers are young enough or naive enough to take themselves seriously and really tackle those problems.

So Washington sets out to help them adapt themselves with an open-minded welcome.

("New Congressmen Meet Washington—the Party Capital," said a Sunday headline. The story added that "Newcomers say, 'So this is Washington,' marvel at its party pace, then quickly catch on to the tempo." It listed a few of the scores of parties being pitched for the newcomers, and every capital paper carried pictures of those parties . . .)

You take the atomic energy problem, for instance. Many a new congressman feels that something legislative must be done about that before this current session ends. Naturally, then, he wants to learn as much as he can about it, before acting.

So Washington sets out to help him . . .

("Oh, I really must invite Doctor So-and-So to that Thursday afternoon cocktail party," said a renowned capital hostess who considers Washington only as a center of social activities. "After all, he's practically the boss of the Atomic Commission — whatever that may be. But, George—" with an appealing glance at her best party pundit,—"you really must get him to one side if he starts talking about the atom bomb. Otherwise, the party will get terrifically dull and depressing. And whatever you do, don't let him buttonhole the new congressmen!")

On and on the parties go. You've never seen people get such a royal welcome. After all, the social butterflies who oohed-and-aahed their admiration of New Deal theories a decade or two now must convince the newcomers that they're practically agog about the righteous policies of the Republicans.

Not that they're interested, you understand. But it's necessary to keep this party from getting boresome, and to assure plenty of influential attendance at future parties.

Many a veteran comes to town with the new congress. As a matter of fact, this congress carries 45 veterans in the senate and 202 in the house—respectively speaking, just four less than a majority in the former and 16 less than a majority in the latter.

Naturally, they have veterans' problems on their hands. You know, housing and the like. So Washingtonians set out to show them every courtesy on those questions in the many welcomes.

("Look," said the big real estate man to the group of slightly spifflicated veterans, all of whom were new solons, "now I can tell that you boys are not going to take a narrow-minded view towards these things—not after what you've been through! You're going to be big enough to forget the fact that you're veterans and approach this thing from the point of view of taxpayers, and influential citizens . . .")

Everywhere you turn, it's the same thing. Society leaders and social climbers, lobbyists of every sort, bureaucrats, diplomats and brass hats, business men, lawyers, labor leaders and just plain political leeches.

Everywhere there are welcoming parties, complete with beautiful men and women, lots of liquor—and plenty of professional photographers who are carefully coached to remove cocktail glasses before snapping pictures to be peddled to local and hometown papers.

Of course, many newcomers still stay solidly concerned with the problems of the United Nations, the atomic bomb, the housing crisis, the tax situation, the race prejudice question and all of the other legislative necessities they came here to consider.

But meanwhile, the whisky-and-whetstone welcomes continue, and the line forms to the right for those with axes to grind.

Yes, there must be something mighty fine about this welcome Washington gives new congressmen. Some day maybe I'll be able to figure out what it is.

Right now, it merely makes me sick.

Thomas L. Stokes

Democracy on Trial Before the World.

WASHINGTON—There is a related and underlying economic issue in the Bilbo incident which should not be lost sight of, because it involves the typical Southern demagogue and the purpose he serves.

This purpose is contrary to the best interests of the south in its attempt to improve its economic conditions.

It was brought out clearly by Senator Taylor (D,. Idaho) in the speech on his resolution to prevent Bilbo from taking the oath.

There was a spirit of tolerance in the Idaho senator's speech. He led up to his penetrating analysis of the Southern demagogue type by explaining that the problem of race relations in the South is a highly complex one requiring patience and good will. He was willing, he said, "to move as slowly as necessary.

"I ask only one thing: That we do move forward, that we do not turn back the clock. And I will vigorously resist any attempt to move in the opposite direction, the direction of ill will."

Then he put his finger on the economic issue:

"Mr. Bilbo has moved in that backward direction. He has toured the length and breadth of his state stirring up racial hatred, inciting white to hate black and causing black to hate white.

"To whites who are themselves poor, ill-nourished, ill-clothed and ill-educated, he does not offer prosperity, nourishment, clothing, food and education. No, he offers to them the delicious sense of feeling superior to someone else, the cheap thrill of membership in a master race, the joy of kicking someone else around."

None has ever put more accurately the basic motivation of Southern demagogues who exploit the racial issue. And, sad to state, that also is the motivation of other interests in the South which want to keep the poor whites and Negroes on a low economic level for their own seifish purposes. They use such demagogues as Senator Bilbo for their purpose.

That was a clear influence in the campaign of the late Gene Talmadge in Georgia.

A native who returned to watch that election was amazed at the support of the Georgia demagogue by powerful economic interests that knew how Mr. Talmadge, when governor previously, had harrassed labor union activities. They expected him to impede labor-organizing campaigns in the state. Some of these powerful interests have roots in the east and elsewhere.

It is well to remember this background. Though it has no direct bearing on the basic issue in this case, which is the senator's attempt to prevent Negroes from exercising their constitutional right to vote in primary elections, it does have its meaning in the battle for democracy in the south.

The Bilbo case presents a great national issue. The senator has become the symbol of the forces of intolerance, bigotry and racial prejudice by his inflammatory speeches and by his blatant and open efforts to intimidate Negro voters.

One thing to remember is that our democracy is on test before the world today. Less than a year and a half ago it finally came, victoriously, through its greatest struggle for preservation, only to find that keeping it is a daily struggle in peacetime, too.

It was therefore most fitting that our first postwar congress should open with a great battle for the extension of our freedom here at home, a battle to strengthen our democratic processes on the issue of constitutional rights and civil liberties.

For that is exactly what it is.

Mumford, Ex-Kiwanis Leader, Heads NYC's Safety Division

GALION—Galion learned with interest today of a promotion by the New York Central railroad of one of her native sons and the retirement of another veteran railroader who served the Big Four for 34 years.

The native son, Don E. Mumford, has been made superintendent of safety of the New York Central railroad system with headquarters in New York.

Mumford, graduate of Galion high school, is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Mumford of Galion. He was with the Big Four railroad in Galion for several years, and 13 years ago was transferred to Bellefontaine.

For the last six years he has been located in New York, and was assistant to the late John N. Greenwood, general safety director who died suddenly in Indianapolis, Nov. 20.

Mumford is a former governor of Ohio Kiwanis, serving in 1940 while he was located in Bellefontaine.

Reynolds Retires.

Fred N. Reynolds, assistant to the vice president and general manager of the Big Four district of the New York Central railroad, retired Jan. 1, it was announced Saturday at Indianapolis.

Reynolds was well known in Galion by railroad men as he served the Big Four for 34 years. He started his railroad career by braking on the Chicago and Northwestern in 1898, and later did the same for the Rock Island.

Later he went to Panama where he worked as yardmaster, passenger conductor and trainmaster for the first railroad. Jungle diseases drove him from a position in Brazil.

He then went from the Chicago Great Western at Oelwein, Ia., to the Great Northern at Great Falls, Mon., and finally to the New York Central at Indianapolis in 1913 as general yardmaster. He won advancement to assistant general superintendent, general superintendent and in 1938 assistant general manager.

Spot of Orange Paint Leads To Arrest of Willard Youths

WILLARD—Two teen-age Willard youths were held in Norwalk jail today awaiting arraignment in juvenile court after detective work by Willard police led to the recovery of $400 worth of merchandise stolen from the Willard airport Christmas eve.

Chief of Police L. M. Riddle said the identity of the two boys was discovered through telltale spots left on the clothing of one of the youths when he stepped in a can of orange airplane pain t while they were ransacking the administration building.

The boys had entered the building by breaking a large plate glass section of the front door. While carrying the loot away, one overturned the can of paint.

Chief Riddle and Deputy Sheriff Harry Brooms began an investogation which led to the home of one of the youths. The officers were about to leave when a younger brother made a remark which led tohm to investigate the clothing of the suspect.

The orange paint was found on the shoes, and part of the loot was found on his person. The youth, 15, then confessed and implicated an 18-year-old boy as his companion.

FAMILY MESSAGE NUMBER 9

Sorry! But you'll meet Old Man Money inside!

Honeymoons last longer when you learn how to deal with him

Young couples starting married life under today's conditions have some real financial problems to face, says Mrs. Gladys Beckett Jones. . . . And Mrs. Jones is worth listening to on this subject because, as President of the Grand School in Boston, and home-making authority, she has given it a lot of study. Here are some of her thoughts about it.

1 Talk about money matters frankly beforehand

"The, money matters are not very romantic, but they are the bread and butter which will keep your romance flourishing. So don't let any false sensitivity keep you from a frank understanding and agreement about them in advance.

"For example, know just what your income from all sources will be, and start talking about it as 'our money.' Then, in the light of that, face your obligations with equal honesty, and equal sense of sharing the responsibilities they impose."

2 Set a standard of living within your income

"Planning how to use your money is not complicated. It simply means agreeing on your family goals, and working out your spending and saving plan together, right from the start.

"No matter what plan you agree to follow, be sure that in addition to your general household allowance, both husband and wife have an allowance for personal expenses — money they can spend without having to account for it to anybody."

3 Look ahead, too

"Babies, for example, cost money—so budget for them in advance, and be happy in their arrival. And don't forget those 'unusual' expenses which are always cropping up unexpectedly, such as doctor's and dentist's bills. The thing to do is, build up a 'contingency' fund, as every well-run business does.

"And, finally, don't forget that savings —for education, for travel, vacations, for a home, and for security—are the true road to peace of mind and a lasting married happiness."

HOW TO PLAN FOR FAMILY HAPPINESS

Regardless of the size of income, any family can have more happiness and fewer worries by planning the use of the family money.

First: provide in advance for payments coming due, such as rent, taxes, mortgage charges, life insurance and other insurance. The easiest way is to bank small amounts each payday that will add up to the totals when due.

Second: set aside something extra each payday in the savings account until you build up an emergency fund.

Then you know what is left to spend on everyday family needs such as food, clothing, recreation—and what you can afford to set aside for such future family plans as a new home, education, travel.

• • •

Because the life insurance companies and their agents have long helped people to plan for family security and happiness, they are conducting this program of information as a public service to the 72,000,000 owners of life insurance and to every American family.

What's Cooking?

BAKED APPLES

Cookery scientists of the U. S. Deparment of Agriculture offer the following directions for baking apples.

Wash apples thoroughly and core them without cutting through the blossom end Place the apples, blossom end down, in a baking dish. Fill holes with a mixture of brown sugar or honey, raisins softened by soaking or chopped soaked prunes, a bit of butter if it can be spared, and chopped nuts if desired. The dried fruit is suggested because it adds sweetness and helps save sugar. Add just enough water to the pan to keep apples from sticking. Then cover the dish The steam held in by the cover makes the apples cook faster and more evenly. Bake at a temperature from 350 to 400 degrees F. Baking will take about half an hour, depending on the size and variety of apples.

When apples are soft throughout when tested in the center with a fork, they are done. Serve hot or cold, with or without cream.

Simp is the name of a baby crow.

Want more delicious cakes this easy, economical way?
Homogenized Milk actually improves cakes, gives them a smooth, even texture, a rich, delicious flavor. The reason? Homogenized Milk has more but smaller cream particles, and these smaller particles combine more readily with cooking and baking ingredients.
Cooking and nutrition experts have proved that baked goods, custards, hot drinks and cooked dishes are far superior in flavor when made with Homogenized Milk That is why they recommend Homogenized Milk And it's economical, too!
In your next cake, or any recipe which requires milk, try Isaly's Homogenized Milk. You'll marvel at what a really big difference Homogenized Milk does make. You'll see the difference. You'll taste the difference. And just watch the reaction of your family.
You may get Isaly's Homogenized Milk at your grocery, from your neighborhood Isaly milkman or at any Isaly Dairy store. Telephone 4217-6 if you would like to try a quart or two of this better milk for cooking and baking.
Isaly's
Dairy Specialists

Here's the difference between Homogenized Milk and ordinary milk
In ordinary milk, the cream and milk are separate; the milk is not uniformly wholesome nor does each serving taste the same.
In Homogenized Milk, the cream is COMBINED with the milk, giving a smooth, creamy flavor. Every drop is forced through tiny openings at extremely high pressure. This produces nearly 10 times more cream particles and COMBINES them with the milk. Thus, there's cream through the entire quart. The "cream line" is really at the bottom of the bottle, because the milk and cream never separate. Every serving of Isaly's Homogenized Milk is equally nourishing, equally rich and delicious. Look for the crisp, golden cellophane hood on every quart of Isaly's Homogenized Milk.

Broadway

By Dorothy Kilgallen

LETTER FROM A FAN—Dear Dorothy:

Seems as if the years just keep rolling around, and here it is 1947 and you're in your ninth year of chronicling the happenings on, around and off Broadway.

The past eight years have covered a lifetime on Broadway.

When you started, as you may recall, night club business was just a so-so racket. Things weren't bad, but aside from the Stork, Morocco and the Kit Kat—remember that spot?—nobody was making too much money.

An old column-character of yours, I notice, has just come back into the news headlines again. The front pages have been hinting that Joe Adonis might have some connection with the ring that attempted to fix the pro football championship game between the Giants and the Chicago Bears. It doesn't seem so long since you did a page one prediction that Joe A., as he's known in the underworld, would waltz into the arms of the law after eleven months as the nation's number one fugitive. It amuses me to remember how Joe walked into the office of the then Special Prosecutor John Amen at 1 p. m. that Wednesday, exactly on schedule, and answered questions on why he had given up with: "How could I make a liar out of Dorothy Kilgallen?"

* * *

I remember the story you had, in 1941, I think it was, about Peggy Hopkins Joyce's slapping spree with Sonny Tufts, now a movie star, but then master of ceremonies at the Belmont Plaza's Glass Hat. I guess Peggy has forgotten that one, because after her most recent page one splash—in which her escort slugged a pest—she was quoted as protesting: "I've never been involved in a night club brawl before."

* * *

Remember Lois Andrews when she first came to New York as a showgirl in George White's Scandals? She's had quite a number of adventures—and quite a bit of newsprint placed at her disposal—since you made her nationally famous by revealing that in addition to 24 fur coats in her closet, Lois had a bathroom trimmed with ermine. And Jimmy Van Heusen—remember him in those days? You first started praising his songs when he was a sixty-dollar-a-week piano pounder at Remick Music. He's come along nicely since then, too. He now owns half of the Burke-Van Heusen Publishing company, writes the tunes for Bing Crosby's pictures, and pays his Beverly Hills housekeeper twice that sixty a week to keep his sumptuous belongings in order.

* * *

Other names that used to ramble through your column are missing now, and boy do we miss some of them. No more Jimmy Walker, Al Smith, Vincent Youmans. No more Bob Benchley, Frank Case and Jerome Kern. No more (in a completely different sense) Broadway Rose, either. Rose was always good for a line or two on slow nights, and more than once she was good for a laugh or two. But she's not around any more, and honestly, no matter how big a pest she was, plenty of us really miss her.

Anyway, happy 947 to you. Hope the next eighty are as much fun as the first eight.

Russian Play Tells 'Truth' About U. S. A.

LONDON —(AP)— The Moscow radio has lifted the curtain—an asbestos one, this time—on a new play which is to reveal the "secrets" of the American publishing business to Soviet audiences.

Soviet writer Konstantin Simonov's work depicts anti-Russian publisher Charles MacPherson as deciding to publish a sensational book explaining "why the Russians want war." He cunningly plans to have it written "a true story of the war and the Russians."

Now let Moscow radio go on with the story:

"Smith is no longer a young man. He is afraid of the insecurity of a reporter's life. His goal is independence and happiness with the woman he loves. So he consents to go to the Soviet Union again and write the book.

"Smith returns a few months later. He tells his friend Martha: 'In Russia I became ashamed of myself—of you—of all us people who dish up poison to Americans with their breakfast every day. I remember that I was once a human being, not just a servant of some MacPherson.'"

So he refuses to write the book—whether he gives back his expense money is unclear—and "does what his better nature tells him he must do: he goes into battle against that section of society trying to dictate its opinion to the whole of America."

Naturally, the "reactionaries" fight back. Harry loses his job, his wife, his temper.

"In a monologue that brings the play to a close, Smith declares that he is not going to hang himself. . . . He is going to start life all over again.

Hollywood Film Stars Beginning To Shun Binding Movie Contracts

Ingrid Bergman

Bette Davis

Dorothy Lamour

* * *

By VICTOR GUNSON

HOLLYWOOD —(CP)— Tough man John Garfield has just joined the growing group of movie greats who want no other bosses except themselves.

Two other top-flighters, Dorothy Lamour and Bette Davis, will go out on their own as soon as their present studio contracts expire in 1947.

They join such other independents as Ingrid Bergman, Joan Fontaine, Hedy Lamarr, James Stewart, Douglas Fairbanks, jr., Ginger Rogers, George Brent, Barbara Stanwyck and Gary Cooper, who decide for themselves just what pictures they will make and for whom.

* * *

GARFIELD ACCEPTED AN offer to star in "Burning Journey," the story of a champion boxer, as soon as his present contract, made when he first came to Hollywood seven years ago, expired. Rather than face the prospect of being forced into a picture he did not like, Garfield rejected an offer of a new contract which would have paid him $100,000 for a single picture a year.

Miss Lamour, most famous as "queen of the sarong," said her decision to leave her studio at the end of 12 years' stardom, was caused by a desire for more diversified roles.

"I have been trying to get permission from the studio to do an outside picture a year, but I have not succeeded," Dottie said. "Every other player at the studio seems to be able to get the permission except me."

John Garfield

MISS DAVIS, WINNER OF more Academy award honors than any other star, revealed her own intention to leave her studio just before she left with her husband, William Grant Sherry, for Franconia, N. H., to await the birth of her first baby. They have a farm there.

Like Garfield, Bette said that she has ideas of her own which she wants to work out as her own boss.

Miss Bergman recently completed her first role as an independent, as "Joan" in Erich Marie Remarque's "Arch of Triumph," after the end of her own seven-year contract with a Hollywood studio.

Ingrid has as yet made no screen commitment to follow her first stage play in five years, "Joan of Lorraine," now on Broadway.

Miss Fontaine, an "Oscar" winner like Miss Davis and Miss Bergman, also went on her own at the conclusion of a seven-year contract.

* * *

STEWART AND FAIRBANKS branched out as independents immediately after they returned from four years of active service, Jimmy with the Army Air Force and Doug in the Navy. Stewart's just now is on his second picture. Doug completed one and now plans his own productions.

Miss Lamarr is in retirement awaiting birth of her second baby after completing two pictures in the two years since she quit her studio because they gave her nothing but "pretty girl" roles.

Miss Stanwyck, one of the first independents, is in such demand at all the studios that she is now trying to get Hal Wallis to postpone her next picture for him from January to June. She wants a six-month rest after making six pictures in two years.

Humphrey Bogart, after months of rowing over assignments with his studio, was about to plan an independent career when he and the studio got together on a 15-year contract.

Suggestions and Work Rules For Students of All Ages

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

Many conscientious students don't get good results from their efforts. Here are some suggestions which might help them.

1. Don't let yourself daydream. When you catch yourself at it, "yank" yourself back to the job.

2. By paying strict attention in class you can save time out of class. Hold yourself responsible for every question asked. Check the correctness of the answer you should have given. Get the assignment without thought of asking later what it is.

3. Get all your work in on time. When an assignment covers several days or weeks in advance, budget your time so you will get your work completed when due. Avoid the "putting off" habit.

4. Learn to take notes well. In class, take a few brief notes. Practice at taking and recalling mental notes, and of jotting down a few good notes right after class, or during the study period, or at home in the evening.

5. Have a regular time and place for study. Make a schedule with a definite period of time for each subject and try to stick to it. Get away from the radio and family conversation, if you can; otherwise train yourself to ignore them.

While at study, refuse to talk to anybody. Pay attention to nothing but your work. Before you begin, assemble all our tools and don't let yourself "fiddle around." After working vigorously for twenty or thirty minutes, it may be well to walk about for five minutes before another siege.

6. Before beginning work on any assignment, review briefly the last lesson or last several lessons.

7. Learn to read well. If you are a poor reader, practice fifteen minutes a day at home on materials much easier than those of your text books. Read for ideas rather than words.

8. When you read from a text book or reference book, read the entire selection through to get the general drift. Then re-read it more carefully and turn it briefly into your own words. The bold type and paragraph headings will help you. Learn to summarize a paragraph in a sentence of your own. Memorize the thought of these sentences. You do not really know something until you can tell it in your own words.

9. Don't try to deceive yourself or teacher by handing in work not your own. Every effort to earn grades by deceit spoils your habits of work and robs you of self-reliance and self-respect.

10. Select one evening for study out of your week-end, and discipline yourself to stick to it. Otherwise, you easily will form the habit of letting all the evenings slip by with the result that you are unprepared Monday.

WEDDING BELLS RING IN RISE OF POPULATION

Gain In 1946 Estimated At 1,500,000 By Experts.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Marriages and births zoomed to record highs in 1946. Are large families once again the American style?

Population experts are trying to decide how long the United States can support large population increases. Guy Irving Burch, director of the population reference bureau, believes the increase is only temporary.

The national office of vital statistics estimates births in 1946 were one per cent greater than 1943, the previous record year. Births headed toward a peak 11 months after a record high in the number of American marriages. The trend still is upward.

The population reference bureau, a non-profit organization, estimates the U. S. gain in population from 1946 births will be around 1,500,000. It expects about 3,000,000 births and 1,500,000 deaths.

Before the 1946 rise in the birth rate, the average size of the "completed" American family was about 2.5 children. It is estimated that 2.2 children per family would maintain the population at its present size of around 140,000,000.

Temporary Condition.

Burch says the increase in births "definitely appears to be temporary, entirely attributable to the return of war veterans."

He says the November bulletin of the national office of vital statistics of the United States public health service shows the extent of the present marriage boom.

The statistics for cities of more than 100,000 population, most comprehensive figures available, show more marriages were performed in the first nine months of the year than in all of 1942, the previous high year.

The 1946 January-to-September total of 595,289 was 34.8 per cent higher than the total for the first nine months of 1942.

"It's only natural the birth rate should be going up to new highs 11 months later," says Burch.

"So apparently styles in the sizes of families are not changing. It's simply that we've had more marriages and more famiiles have been created with one and two children in them.

"It's true that the number of families with three, four, five and even six children also have increased slightly.

"But this is misleading if we let it lead us to the assumption families are getting larger. Over long periods, the tendency toward large families has been downward."

City Urged to Guard Trees Against Attack By Disease

By AL PREYER

Mansfield's many stately elm trees are in danger of possible destruction unless measures are taken to protect them from the spreading Dutch elm disease and a more deadly enemy, phloem necrosis, William H. Zerby, Mansfield tree surgeon warns.

Sweeping out of the east, these diseases are causing elm trees to die in a manner reminiscent of the chestnut blight which a generation ago destroyed most of the chestnut trees in Ohio. The elm diseases have already struck at Columbus, killing thousands of trees there, Zerby said.

* * *

AS THE RESULT OF THIS attack, an ordinance is being proposed in Columbus which would allow the city broader control of tree planting on public property and the right to go on to private property and remove diseased trees which threaten other trees, Zerby said.

"Although I don't know of any elms in Mansfield that have been stricken with these diseases," Zerby said, "I believe that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. In this case it is worth more, as once the disease gets started, it is difficult to control without the loss of many fine trees.

"If one realize that Ohio uses 1,750,000,000 board feet of lumber yearly and that we only produce 250,000,000 board feet a year within the state, the importance of saving all possible timber is vividly emphasized," Zerby pointed out.

* * *

SIMPLE PREVENTATIVE measures against the diseases suggested by Zerby were:

(1) all beetle infested trees which are discovered should be destroyed at once if within 100 feet of healthy trees; (2) dead and dying branches should be pruned and removed from all trees as they encourage beetle feeding which acounts for the spread of the disease; (3) trees should be kept in as healthy condition as possible by constant trimming, and feeding and watering if necessary.

Zerby explained that while the Dutch elm disease is known to be spread by small bark beetles, the method by which phloem necrosisis spread has not been determined.

Nurses Save 46 Babies From Fire

NEWARK, N. J.—(AP)—Forty-six babies in the Babies' hospital were carried to safety by a score of student nurses when a fire broke out in the first floor of the four-story hospital yesterday.

Vela Floyd, superintendent, said none was injured. The fire was confined to a social service room.

IT SURE IS SWELL to have a dad who's a real hero, and no one knows this better than Skippy, 9, who clings to the shoulder of Patrolman George E. Patt while mama plants a wifely kiss. Home Gutted By Fire, Family Needs Clothing, Furniture

Adj. R. L. Gutterman of the Volunteers of America issued an appeal today for household furnishings, bed clothing and children's clothing for a Belmont avenue family whose home was gutted by fire two days before Christmas.

Gutterman said the mother appealed to him yesterday for assistance in getting her family back into their home. The director said that insurance on the home, owned by the family, had expired just before the fire. He added that the family's finances were low because of slack work where the father is employed.

Urgently needed are all types of household furniture, with the exception of bedsteads which were saved from the blaze. Bed clothing is also needed. Since most of the family's wearing apparel was lost in the fire, Gutterman asked for boys' clothing, sizes 12 and 16, and for girl's clothing, size 10. The mother can wear a size 14 or 16 dress.

Persons wishing to donate furniture or clothing to the family are urged to assemble the articles, mark them specifically for the "Belmont avenue family," and call the Volunteers of America, Phone 4578-6, for pick-up.

The cutting, flaking and polishing of stone tools by the Maya tribes of Central America, who flourished until 1200, is the finest known to archaeologists.
